Unburied on Western Front, Says Observer.

London, Eng., Feb. 27.—The whole district about Ypres, Belgium, on the western battle front is a vast cameters, according to a statement given out by a British official eye witness at the front. The ground is plowed by shells, furrowed with the remains of oid tranches and hummocked with graves. German and French trenches atill excupied wind in every direction.

"In a sheltered spot," he continues, there is a little graveyard where some of our own dead have been buried. Their graves have been carefully marked and a rough square of bricks has been placed around them. In front of the trenches German bodies still lie thick.

"At one point of the brick fields recently some 30 men tried to rush our line. At their bend was a young German officer who came on gallantly, waving his sword. He almost reached the barbed wire and then fell dend, and he lies there yet, with his sword in his land and all his 39 men about him.

the harbed wire and then fell dead, and he lies there yet, with his sword in his hand and all his 39 men about him.

German Bodies Everywhere.

"It is the same all along the front in this quarter. Everywhere still, gray files can be seen lying, sometimes everal rows together and semetimes sangly or in twos or threes.

"This description might serve, with a few minor alterations, for many of the localities along our front where the fighting his centered around some wood, a village or line of trenches. It is as if each had been swent by a withering blast before which every object, whether a work of nature or of man, has crumbled into rilins or became twisted and deformed, and even the very ground itself looks as if it had been shaken by a violent convulsion of nature.

To the south of the Ypres-Comines canal, says the "eye witness," the ground, sithough, there are some enclosures, is comparatively open. To the north of it, however, there are many woods and these have become a tangle of fallen trees interspersed with shell craiers.

Sink Neep in Mud.

To add to the hardships of such fighting, the troops have been attacking on ground in which the men sink up to their knees in the mrd.

"Despite all these drawbacks" continues the observer, "counter attacks have been carried out with the result that in nearly all cases the original line has been regained."

Incidents of the lighting are depointed.

Incidents of Fighting.

ron the night of Feb. 15, as our troops are advancing to drive the enemy out of one of these trenches. His runs suddenly opened a tremendous fire," the eye witness mays. "Our men were in the open at some distance from the Germans at the time, and being thus taken at disadvantage their chance of success looked small. Without a moment's hesitation, however, the leng line broke into a doubts quiek, and pounding through the mud, burst into the German trenches.
"A counter attack on the 18th, was also a most during piece of work. Trenches occupied by the enemy had been subjected to such a brayy fire that they would not await our onset. As our men charged forward cheering, the Germans were observed to be leaving the trenches and burrying to the rear.

Germans were observed to be leaving the trenches and hurrying to the rear.

Forty Fight to the Last.

"In one trench, which became in the course of the fighting more or less isolated, to do diff men estimated to hold firm until everyone of them had been either killed or wounded. Eventually there were only three left who were capable of firing and these three confinued to hold the enemy at bay. In the meantime word was brought to those is the rear that their ammunition was bearify exhausted and seven men, the strongest available, were selected to bring up as much ammunition as they could carry. These laiter found the three wounded survivors still standing amid the bodies of their dead and disabled comrades and Still firing steadily. SAYS GERMAN AMERICANS ARE" ALTOGETHER AMERICAN

ARE ALTOGETHER AMERICAN
London, Eng., Feb. 27.—It is wrong to assume that Americans of German descent are pro-German. They are Americans for all practical purposes.
This was the gist of an article by viscount James Bryce, former British amhassador to the United States, published in the Dally Chronicle today.
"The children of Europeans who are born in America," viscount Bryce continues, "grow up normal American citizens. Their loyalty to the Stars and Stripes and their feeling for the land of their parents is comparatively weak.
What is called the German vote, is, in some few cities, a force to be reckoned with. But when those who lead try to use it as a means for applying political pressure in such cases as this,
the native Americans resent such an attempt, for with them it is a fundamental principle that citizens must have no loyalty save to the United States and the great bulk even of byphenated German-American would refuse to respond."

As to the gentrality of the American government, Mr. Bryce adds, both sides have blamed it and the government points to this as the best proof of its
